

True or False: Ethical Standards in Education

Directions: Read the statements below and respond with TRUE or FALSE in the before column. When we complete the lesson, respond to the statements again in the after column. Compare your two sets of answers.

Before PowerPoint™ True or False	Statement	After PowerPoint™ True or False
	An ethical responsibility of an employer is to provide a safe work environment for all staff and employees
	Teachers have the same rights as other citizens, including freedom of expression, with restraints placed by the responsibilities of teaching.
	Educators are not required to follow laws for liability, copyright issues, and the reporting of suspected child abuse.
	The Texas educator, in accepting a position of public trust, shall measure success by the progress of each student toward realization of his or her potential as an effective citizen.
	Educators must sometimes be conscientious of all duties and responsibilities.
	Educators who negatively affect the school's reputation also jeopardize their own professional reputation as well as their employment status.
	Educators who are out of compliance will be notified either verbally or in writing as to the improvements necessary to be in compliance.
	Educators are strongly encouraged to have personal pages on Myspace, Facebook or other social networking sites.
	All employees should act with integrity and diligence in duties involving the district's financial resources.
	A good work ethic is an attitude that combines hard work, mediocre performance and dependable results.
	Transferable skills are beneficial because you can transfer them from one situation or career to another.
	A reliable employee arrives at work on time and keeps personal matters aligned with business matters.	